INTRODUCTION

Interactive whiteboards, data projectors and iPads are now appearing in so many music rooms. You don't have them? Get onto financial powers in your school. But don't despair. All the fantastic interactive music programs work well on the desktop computer you might already have in your music room. Now, what's in it for you? Here are a just a few things:

SCROLLING MUSIC AUDIO AND LYRICS

Can you imagine having lyrics displayed in time to your music with only a few minutes preparation? Displaying and playing songs for assembly areas, classrooms and even choir practice. No more need to have children holding a book. They can look at the conductor and over their shoulder to the projection or whiteboard.

SongTorch Audio & Lyrics Creator
- Lessons on YouTube

Imagine sending your efforts to your students or to your other devices via a cloud.

All this software is now free!

SCROLLING MUSIC AUDIO AND NOTATION

Can you imagine having notes and lyrics big enough for your whole class to read zooming by on the screen in time to a vocal or backing version of a song?

It's here and now you can create your own for free!

You start by creating an image of each page of your notation and lyrics on notation software such as Finale or Sybelius. Or better yet go to www.musescore.org for free software. For assistance on creating the notation check out the help videos or contact me for templates to use in these software programs.

After the notation and lyrics are created most of the hard work is done. Next you load the audio and the notation pages into the SongTorch Audio & Notation Creator. You then teach creator quickly and easier when each line is performed. This is done by simply dropping times lines and time points on to your notation. Time lines are like railway tracks and time points are the time you'd like to arrive at each point in the music. With a little experimenting you can get fast at laying down the tracks quickly and accurately. I offer a lot of tips on YouTube to save you time.
